

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would water down or lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law that protects our home from unwanted sales calls.

Since this law has been in effect, our dinner and evening hours have been much more peaceful. Home should be a refuge from the type of nuisance calls that steal time from our families. We already have to deal with junk mail, and unwanted ads on internet and even email. Please don't take away a very successful program that has restored some down time in our home.
